

WEBSITE

We believe that the internet is a useful source of information. However, we have discovered that because of the number of sites and the commercial nature of many sites, that information may be difficult to obtain or may have certain biases. We have created what we think is a good source of information through our website, www.centerforderm.com, and the following sections may be useful for obtaining the information that you need:

1. The Links section – This has many useful links describing multiple skin conditions, with updated information at various sites.
2. The Medical Dermatology, Cosmetic Dermatology, Laser Dermatology, Unique Services, Aesthetician and Clinical Research sections offer information on common skin conditions, common cosmetic procedures, common laser procedures, common aesthetician procedures, as well as a link to the site for The Center For Dermatology Clinical Research, which discusses the various research studies that are being carried on at the center.
3. The Patient Information Handout section has most, if not all, of the important handouts that we give to our patients, and is a useful area to go to to review specific instructions.

The specific area of the website that we would like you to go to for information regarding your skin condition is:
